Appropriate Business Practices

IoTFS was founded on principles of collaboration and mutual trust. To support this, every member is encouraged to deal fairly with other members, customers, suppliers, competitors, business partners and their employees. Members agree to abide by rules of fair competition and applicable anti-trust laws. No member should take advantage of others through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information, misrepresentation of material facts or any other unfair dealing practice.

Copyright and Duties of Disclosure

The regular work of IoTFS is to generate outputs for members based on expert knowledge and member contributions. This will include methods and organisational procedures which can be applied to make all elements of the Internet of Things secure. In normal operation, IoTFS will not be involved in developing technical standards or security protocols, though it may establish a dialogue with standards bodies to inform such standards as an expert group. Such dialogue will be determined by the executive steering board or other member representative group.

Accordingly:

- A member organisation or representative thereof, making a contribution which is designated as such in writing to an IoTSF collaborative project or works (“Contribution”), grants IoTSF a worldwide, irrevocable, nonexclusive, non-transferable, royalty-free and sub-licensable copyright license to reproduce, create derivative works, distribute, display and, perform the Contribution(s) solely for the purposes of IoTSF developing, publishing and distributing best practices or specification documents incorporating Contribution(s) to which such Contribution(s) was submitted.
- In such cases, where the Contribution implies the use of IPR owned by the Contributing Member in a practical application based on it, or a derivative document, the Member will declare such IPR to IoTSF as soon as possible prior to the publication of any recommended best practice or specification document based in whole or in part on the Contribution.
- In the event that a Member is, or becomes aware, that a Contribution not made by that Member, implies the use of proprietary IPR, that Member will endeavour to make such IPR known to IoTSF. For the avoidance of doubt, this duty of disclosure shall not apply where the Member's knowledge arises through information disclosed to them under an obligation of confidentiality.
